Other/Comments: Brief, solutions-based therapy is practiced with the emphasis on how we interact within our families, relationships, and communities to improve our sense of well-being and growth toward a healthy lifestyle. With experience in child, adolescent, adult, and geriatric mental health, individual treatment plans are developed according to strengths, preferences, life stages, and intensity of treatment desired. We provide the choice of individual, group, and family therapy. Children must be treated within their systems of family, school, and medical communities; therefore, case management is part of the service.
